Modesty says Yes to natural lubricants

yes[®] organic lubricants

Although it's true to say that everyone is more aware of, and finds it far easier to buy, lubricants nowadays . . . I'm sure that many people still take for granted the actual content of what they are spreading all over their most delicate, and sensitive, bits.

I'm now ashamed to admit, that I probably did !!! . . .

That was until I met the lovely Lavinia and Susi of Yes Natural Lubricants at their stand at Eroticon 2013.

Of course what first caught my eye was the wonderfully stylish and attractive packaging . . . but after just a few minutes listening to Lavinia explaining the ingredients and technology involved in producing what was inside those lovely bottles, I was convinced I just had to try.

And now, nine months later, I just wouldn't use anything else.

For me the Water-based Yes is my preferred option, as (like all Oil-based lubricants), the Oil-based Yes is not condom-compatible. However, when I'm playing with just Hubby, I love using Yes's "Double-Glide" suggestion of applying the Oil-based first, and then stroking the Water-based lube on top. It does indeed give lovely, long-lasting, 'double-gliding' satisfaction!!

Of course if you are confident that you are in a completely monogamous, relationship . . . (unlike yours truly! LOL!!!) . . . the Yes Oil-based lubricants may be all you need. And you can rest assured that unlike many other oil-based lubricants, which are often made from petro-chemical bi-products (like Vaseline) and simply coat the skin making a barrier underneath which bacteria can get trapped, Yes's oil-based lube is made from natural vegetable oils. Their sweet almond and sunflower oils will slowly get absorbed into the mucosal tissue leaving your personals nourished and wonderfully soft.

And, which-ever your personal preference or the circumstances in which you are playing, both products are great for use with toys and the oil based lube is fine for use with Silicone toys. So, as I do enjoy toy-play . . . in company, and solo, from time-to-time . . . I always have both bottles handy in my make-up bag.

Oh, and that's another big plus point! – you'll never need to feel embarrassed at carrying a bottle of Yes in your everyday-bag. The design and look of the bottles and tubes are SO stylish and subtle, it will never be immediately apparent to the uninitiated just what wonderful contents are bottled within. And the Yes products are available in a wonderful array of sizes (from 25ml, 75ml, 125ml) and different packs and multibuy options.

So if . . . like me . . . you like to say "Yes" often . . . say Yes with the comfort and safety of Yes Natural Lubricants . . .

I have done a little product-demonstration video for my YouTube page >here< (or click the video screen above) . . . but you can find out more information about the complete Yes range of Natural Organic Lubricants (and purchase them directly on-line) by clicking on any of the product pictures above . . . or from Sh! Women's Emporium on-line >here< . . . or, if you prefer, you can actually buy in person at the Sh! store in Hoxton, here in London.

Oh, by-the-way, I haven't been paid for saying any of the above . . . I really do genuinely feel that more people should know about, and be using, products like Yes as their first choice of personal lubricant. And, in fact, I have bought and re-bought my Yes bottles from Sh! on a number of occasions since that original "Yes moment" in March . . .
